Local 8th Graders tour Eagle Railcar Services Facility in Washington, IN as part of their Career Exploration Unit.

Led by Harry Dominguez, Plant Manager at Eagle Railcar Services Washington, teens were offered the chance to see the inner workings of one of the leading local employers. Students explored areas where railcar valves were tested, interiors of cars cleaned, and saw a variety of skilled trades jobs in action. “Eagle offers a wide breadth of jobs across many career paths in each of our ten repair locations. Here in Washington, you’ll see everything from accountants to welders to engineers.” advised Dominguez.
